

Decoding Military Skills for Civilian Employers

Can you effectively market your military skill set for the civilian sector?

1 Appearance Only – Tuesday, June 14, 2011 (Flag Day)

Time: 8:00 p.m. (EDT)

Register Now at www.TurboTAP.org

As a veteran you have developed many military skill sets that will make you a valuable asset to a civilian organization, provided you communicate them in language employers understand. Whether you are writing your resume, detailing information in your cover letter, or engaging an employer in an interview, it is critical that you be able to showcase your knowledge, skills and abilities effectively. This 60-minute webinar will probe into resources, like the Department of Labor's Occupational Information Network (O*NET), and offer various strategies that you can implement to decode and market your best skill sets for civilian employers.